

Ph.D. in Aerospace Engineering

Students will:

- Analyze and solve engineering problems.
- Conduct independent study.
- Carry out research or special projects.
- Use analytical, computational and experimental techniques.
- Demonstrate critical thinking and problem solving skills.
- Technically communicate their research within the aerospace engineering community.
- Observe ethics in research.