

B.S. in Global Security and Intelligence Studies

At the Prescott Campus, the Global Security and Intelligence Studies program is housed in the Department of Global Security and Intelligence Studies within the College of Business, Security and Intelligence. The program focuses on knowledge and skills related to careers in intelligence, security, and law enforcement. The program includes activities conducted in the GSIS Operations Center, which is designed to support training in emergency response, mission readiness, and operational planning through simulated environments.