

Undergraduate Research Scholar Program

Embry#Riddle strives to create a culture of knowledge discovery through research and scholarship. Students who aspire to engage in sustained research activities over the course of their undergraduate career are invited to apply for admittance into the Undergraduate Research Scholars Program. Requirements include: two or more terms/semesters of research under the supervision of a mentor; completion of research training; research dissemination; and reflection. Successful completion of the program will result in a Research Scholar notation on the student's official academic transcript.

To learn more about the program and application process, contact the Research Scholars Program, Worldwide (RSP-WW) and Center of Mentorship Programs and Student Success, Worldwide (COMPASS, WW). Interested students must apply for the program no later than the first day of the term of which they anticipate graduating. Applications will not be accepted after a student's undergraduate degree has been conferred.
